

C O N T E N T S

	Page
The Use of Physiological Studies in the Agronomy of Root Crops P. H. Haynes	1
Growth and Storage in Tropical Root Crops L. M. Degras	18
Discussions.....	27
Irrigation to Increase Sweet Potato ProductionTeme P. Hernandez and Travis Hernandez	31
Discussion.....	37
Root Crops in Ghana E. V. Doku	39
Discussion.....	66
Status of Root Crop Research in the PhilippinesCresencio D. Molinyawe	69
Research on Root Crops by I.R.A.T. in Africa and Madagascar P. Silvestre	84
Notes on Sweet Potato Research in West New Guinea (West Iran) J. Ruinard	88
Discussion.....	109
Some Aspects of the Sweet Potato and its Agronomy in Uganda A. S. McDonald	112
Discussion.....	124
Sweet Potato Research in Puerto Rico —Carlos G. Moscoso	127
Propagation of Sweet Potato with Different Kinds of Cuttings J. P. de Kraker and G. G. Bolhuis	131
Discussion.....	136
Problems of Yam Cultivation in Barbados E. G. B. Gooding and R. M. Hoad	137
Discussion.....	169
Experiments on Yams in Guadeloupe G. Rouanet	152
Regenerative Ability Trials on Tuber Pieces of Discorea Composita in Mexico Jose Sarukhan K. and Jesus Vazquez S.	159
Discussion.....	170
Some Experiments with Potatoes (Solanum Tuberosum) in Trinidad 1963-4..... T. Chapman	171
Cassava in the Malagasy Republic Arraudeau	180

