

CONTENTS

|                                                                                                                                               | Page |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------|
| The Significance of Root Crops in the Tropics.....Kenneth A. Leslie                                                                       | 1    |
| Discussion .....                                                                                                                              | 14   |
| Some Economic Aspects of Root Crop Production..... Ann Morgan Rees                                                                        | 18   |
| Starchy Roots in the Dietaries of developing Tropical Countries..... William O. Jones                                                     | 34   |
| Some Factors Affecting the Demand for Starchy Roots and Tubersin Trinidad ..... Medford N. Alexander                                      | 45   |
| An Economic View of the Development of new Production Systems..... D. T. Edwards and J. Cropper                                           | 57   |
| The Discrepancy between Social and Private Returns to Mechaniza-tion in the early phase of Economic Development..... Bruce F. Johnson | 67   |
| Discussion .....                                                                                                                              | 77   |
| The Development of Irish Potato Industry in Jamaica.....I. E. Johnson                                                                     | 85   |
| Root Crops in the Barbadian Economy.....E. G. B. Gooding                                                                                  | 110  |
| The Arrowroot Industry in St. Vincent..... C. I. Martin                                                                                   | 125  |
| Discussion .....                                                                                                                              | 140  |

